

SAIGA MK .223REM v.03

The Saiga-MK self-loading carbine is patterned after the AK103 Kalashnikov rifle.

It has a removable muzzle brake, sight leaf and an index-finger-adapted safety lock.

The 03 version (derives from AK102) enjoys a non-removable flame suppressor.

The carbine's standard configuration features a casket magazine (sports version - elongated dispenser magazine), unfolding plastic butt and a side rib for the installation of telescope mounts.

A Picatinny rail is included on the right and lower parts of the plastic fore-end for the installation of accessories (such as a fore grip or an under-barrel flashlight). The weapon is designed in a manner that prevents butt-folded firing.

Main characteristics:

- Cartridge: .223REM
- Sighting range, m: max 500
- Full length, mm: 825
- Length, buttstock folded, mm: 586
- Barrel length, mm: 336
- Empty weight, kg: 3.4
- Magazine capacity, cartridges: 10 (30 for sports events)

